

Frozen

Long ago, there were two sisters named Anna and Elsa.
They lived in a beautiful castle.

Elsa had magic powers.
She could make snow and ice.

One day, Elsa accidentally hurt Anna with her magic.
After that, Elsa stayed alone in her room.

Years later, Elsa became queen.

During her coronation party,
Elsa lost control of her magic.

Ice and snow covered the kingdom.

Everyone was afraid,
and Elsa ran away to the mountains.

She sang “Let It Go”.

Elsa made a beautiful ice castle there.

Anna wanted to bring Elsa home.
On her way, she met Olaf the snowman and Kristoff.

Together, they went to find Elsa.

Finally, Anna found her sister.

“Please come home,”
Anna said.

But Elsa was afraid of hurting people.

Suddenly, Anna’s heart began to freeze because of Elsa’s magic.

Only an act of true love could save her.

At the end, Anna protected Elsa from danger.

That act of true love saved Anna.

Elsa learned that love was stronger than fear.

Then she used her magic to help everyone,
and the kingdom became happy again.
